

Footprints Orphanage is a children's home in the Shimba Hills in Kenya. Founded by Kerry Watson from Burton-on-Trent, England it provides not only shelter, food and water for orphaned and vulnerable children, but also the quality education, love, security and hope for the future they truly deserve, in a family environment.

2012 saw the construction of school classrooms and now children from both the children's home and the local community are educated at 'Footprints Academy', giving them quality education for quality of life.

The children at Egginton Primary School organise regular fundraising events in aid of Footprints Orphanage in Shimba Hills, Kenya.

Events organised by the children have included; coffee mornings, bring and buy sales and book sales.
